Lawson Dumped, Hollister Disqualified and Kick Over Decision.

Perhaps nine-tenths of the spectators at the saucer track left for their homes last ris Kane evening without knowing just what did happen at the finish of the five-mile race. The big event of the evening was supposed to be the match race between Kramer and Samuelson, but later de-Kramer and Samuelson, but later developments showed that the five-mile open lap race furnished the real excitement. Within a space of a couple of seconds there was a bad spill, a disqualification, a scrap and a roar on the judges' decisions, and when it was all over the people were asking each other what had happened.

The five-mile race developed several strong combinations to get the money. Lawson made his second appearance in this race and was teamed with McFarland and Pye. Samuelson and Hollister worked together, and some half a dozen of the other riders combined in an effort to steal a lap. On the third mile McFarland punctured a tire, which put him to steal a lap. On the third mile McFarland punctured a tire, which put him out of the race and left Pye and Lawson to fight it out against the other combinations. As McFarland fell, Williams started for a lap and gained nearly a half lap when he collided with Mitten, who had been raking in the lap money from a distance mark. Williams fell from a distance mark. Williams fell hard and was carried off the track. The other riders in with Williams took turns in slowing the back bunch and Williams' fall put this combination out of the Mace.

Race Starts at Four Laps.

Four laps from home Pye started to the front with Lawson on his rear wheel. As Pye came abreast Samuelson the latter started with Hollister on. Pye did not have speed enough to take Lawson to the lead and the latter took a desperate chance and went to the pole to go under Samuelson and Hollister. As they ensured the strateh Samuelson partly gave Pye came abreast Samuelson the latter started with Hollister on. Pye did not have speed enough to take Lawson to the lead and the latter took a desperate chance and went to the pole to go under Samuelson and Hollister. As they entered the stretch, Samuelson partly gave way to Lawson coming through on the pole, but Hollister, who was coming around Samuelson at this point, refused to go up with Samuelson, and, stretching out his hand, held Samuelson down. The only natural thing resulted; Lawson was forced to the cement and took a fall. was forced to the cement and took a fall. Downing was behind the three and came on with a rush to the tape. The judges eaught the finish, Hollister, Downing and Samuelson.

Referee Berry disqualified Hollister on the ground that he had shoved Samuelson down. This gave Downing first money

Howl Over Decision.

Then came the howl. A majority of the crowd claimed Samuelson had beaten Downing over the tape. Downing said he did not and Samuelson said he did, and a wrangle ensued at the tape.

Many thought Hollister had deliberately Many thought Hollister had deliberately held Samuelson back when he touched him, but as this pair were teaming, this impression should be dismissed. As Downing dismounted from his wheel, the heavy one was run into by some spectator crossing the track. In the mixup that followed it took several policemen and about twice as many bike riders to keep Hardy from jumping all over the spectator. This mixup did not have anything to do with what occurred in the race itself. After the race Hollister and Samuelson announced that they would protest the decision of the judges in placing Down-

Lehi Commercial Club Growing Active in Injunction Suit Brought by Salt Lake County.

Provo, Aug. 24.—Messrs. John G. Smith and S. W. Ross of Lehi appeared before the council last evening as representatives of the Lehi Commercial club in the matter of the injunction suit brought by Salt Lake City and Salt Lake Canal companies to enjoin A. J. Evans and James H. Gardner from taking forty second feet of water from Utah lake. The object of Messrs. Evans and Gardner, it was explained, was to take water from the lake by pumping for the irrigation of the lemi on or before the completion of the lake. The object of Messrs. Evans and Gardner, it was explained, was to take water from the lake by pumping for the irrigation of the low lands. This would enable the land owners to take the water from the streams to irrigate the high lands, and the opinion of experts was that the lake would supply 1,000 second feet. Those who sought to enjoin the taking of this water were contiled to 500 second feet. Those who sought to enjoin the taking of this water were contiled to 500 second feet and this would.

lands. This would enable the land owners to take the water from the streams to irrigate the high lands, and the opinion of experts was that the lake would supply 1.000 second feet. Those who sought to enjoin the taking of this water were entitled to 500 second feet, and this would leave sufficient water, if it was permitted to be taken, to irrigate all of the low lands in the county, and all of the high lands could be irrigated by the waters Today a horse dying in the harness slightly delayed the hauling to the King Consolidated for some time. The road is extremely heavy and the recent storms have made the trip to the mine one of the most difficult in the country, and horseflesh is not spared to get the material for fuel and timbering to the proplands could be irrigated by the waters from the streams.

Salt Lake City and the canal companies, who were seeking to enjoin Messrs. Evans and Gardner from taking the water, not only sought to enjoin them from taking water from the lake by pumping, but from the use of any of the waters of the streams flowing into the lake not already appropriated, and if they were successful it would prevent any further use of the waters of the lake or streams for irrigation than is now being made.

Messrs. Smith and Ross asked for cooperation from Provo and would ask it from all the cities in the county. Cooperation from Provo and would ask it from all the cities in the county.
